

A UNITY SYSTEM, INC. PROFILE

About A Unity System, Inc.

A Unity System, Inc. (AUS) is a premier minority-owned computer supplier and distributor that offers a broad portfolio of products, including desktops, laptops, servers and fully rugged field PC's. By providing another option for consumers in a market that has been monopolized by a few corporations, AUS intends to crack the digital divide by offering quality products that are affordable for the average consumer. The key to providing affordability is AUS' operational efficiencies. So the customer wins.

Besides offering affordable products, AUS is backing its products by offering a one year warranty on labor and three years limited warranty on parts, which is two years more than the market average. That way, consumers can be comfortable with their purchasing decision.

AUS customers have consisted of corporate, government, education and small to large sized businesses.

AUS products are assembled in the United States to help maintain and create American jobs. AUS computers and laptops can be purchased on Walmart.com. The costs of the computers range from $298.00 to $478 for desktops and $398.00 to $628.00 for laptops. The high-end desktops have built-in Wi-Fi. All laptops feature built-in webcam, microphone and Wi-Fi, and the upper end laptops includes Bluetooth.

About the President and CEO

Tonee Bell, the President and CEO of AUS, has overcome incredible odds to compete in an industry dominated by major corporations. As a sound business professional with no financial backing, Mr. Bell started AUS in 1999 and entered major retail in 2001 with Staples, and later Kmart, and Office Depot. Besides retail, AUS also supplied computers to General Motors Advantage Program. While refusing to give up his dream to build a company that is dedicated to bridging the digital divide and recycling a percentage of company profits back into the community, Mr. Bell has continued to build relationships and garner successful partnerships. His most recent accomplishment is his partnership with Walmart to carry his computers on www.walmart.com in the fall of 2009. For more information, visit www.aunitysystem.com.
